

What's on Dennis Dougherty's Mind?

- A. The prospect of one of his portfolio companies profoundly improving the human living experience through a cancer vaccine
- B. His firm's decision to remain committed to the Life Sciences industry at the height of the tech boom
- C. The elation of hand-delivering distribution checks to limited partners after his first IPO
- D. Spending a weekend on the Carolina Coast fishing with his trusted casting net
- E. Renewing his membership in NVCA for the 8th year

For Dennis, it's simple: NVCA improves venture capital's professional credibility through its promotion of industry-wide standards. Provides a consolidated voice publicly and on Capitol Hill. And generates extensive industry research.

Their benefits even smaller firms like his can enjoy—making his NVCA renewal a no-brainer.

Dennis Dougherty is a founding general partner of Intersouth Partners (1985), where he manages the life sciences portfolio, which includes companies in therapeutic drug discovery, devices and discovery tools.
